

Weekly Review of an Organized Miss

What do you count as a success this week?

List ONE current event in the news and your opinion on it.

How have you served your community this week? (This includes all the “communities” you are a part of: family, church, school, organizations, city, state, country)

What is the message you have communicated this week through your style and what avenues did you utilize? (This encompasses not only your physical message through healthy habits but also the message of your brand you are communicating in person, via social media and/or website)

Where is your scholastic focus this week? (Any tests, assignments, term papers, scholarship deadlines to be mindful of, seminars/webinars/conferences)

What activity did you participate in that nourishes you and provides self-care? (This can be a hobby, something you are passionate about or gives you a moment to pause, reflect and recharge)

How will you set yourself up for success this coming week? (What are your plans to help you move closer to your goals?)
